BATTLE IN POURING RAIN

Misses Collett and Hicks Even in Main Event, Which Provides
Setback for Miss Parker.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 21.—For the first time since 1926, the women's team of New Jersey golfers won the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association's annual intersectional match and they did it after a long, tense battle in the pouring rain over the Montclair Golf Club links today.

It was not until the last of the fifteen matches had reported that the final decision was determined and Mrs. M. P. Dickenson, by bringing in a double victory over her opponents, brought two more points to

New Jersey total that definitely led the triumph, with an aggregate of 18, while Long Island was left with 15 and Westchester, last year's winner, tallied 12.

There was considerably more interest in this event that was inaugurated in 1922 and is held each Spring for the Golf Illustrated Trophy than in former seasons as the leading match found Miss Glenna Collett, the national champion who seldom plays in these contests, as the No. 1 player on the Westchester team. Opposed to her were Miss Helen Hicks of Long Island and Miss Martha Parker, Metropolitan champion, representing New Jersey.

Carry Fight to Home Green.

Although Miss Parker found herself off her game and beaten by both players at the thirteenth hole, 6 and 5, both Miss Collett and Miss Hicks carried their fight right on to the home green. There Miss Collett, who at one time had been three down to Miss Hicks, missed a putt of five feet which would have beaten her Long Island opponent and they finished all square, each winning half a point for her team.

Miss Hicks started at a fine pace, being one under 4s on the first six holes and enjoying a lead of 3 up at that point over Miss Collett and 5 up over Miss Parker.

Although her pitch shots were carrying well beyond the pin at most of the holes, Miss Hicks finished the nine in 38, while Miss Collett won back two holes by the turn and was only 1 down. Miss Parker trailed, 6 down to Miss Hicks and 4 down to Miss Collett.

At the tenth, however, Miss Hicks flubbed a shot from the heavy grass and Miss Collett squared the match. Miss Collett won the eleventh as Miss Hicks 3-putted, but then the national champion dropped the twelfth, so they were all even again and continued right on through to the eighteenth.

At the thirteenth Miss Collett holed a really great 4 at this 344-yard hole for a half. Her tee shot, pushed a bit, was in the rough and her niblick shot splashed in the brook and carried into the side of the bank. From there she pitched out twelve feet below the pin and then sank the putt for a 4; Miss Hicks, having been home in 2, likewise getting her 4.

Playing her shots around the green well, Miss Collett finished with a 40, 42-82, while Miss Hicks took 43 on the second half for an 81.

New Jersey Forges Ahead.

New Jersey forged ahead with the second match in, as Mrs. Wright Goss Jr. turned back both Mrs. Thomas Hucknall, the Connecticut champion, and Mrs. Leo Federman, the Long Island title holder, to win 2 points. Among the others on the team who accounted for double victories were:

Miss Jane Brooks, playing No. 3; Mrs. Charles Morse, Mrs. F. B. Ryan, Mrs. Richard Decker and Mrs. Dickenson.
