Tiny Tales from the Tee

I recall learning two hard lessons in one day. It was either the late 80's or early 90's and we were playing a team match at Scarsdale. Of course, back then, everyone was wearing metal spikes, though I am not sure today's soles would have helped. Unfortunately, we had a wintry mix that day - certainly not ideal for golf, but we were hearty. Scarsdale's first hole plays from an elevated tee down to the fairway. Each group on the tee awaiting their tee times enjoyed a great laugh at the expense of the foursome in front of them as they skied or ice skated down the hole. Lesson #1....be prepared for winter sports when playing golf on the ice. Lesson #2 that day...beware the opponent with a white hand! She had been playing in Florida all winter and had the golfer's tan. Luckily these days, training bays enable northerners to practice year round!
